New Plan to Settle the Louisiana Case.

Pinchback Read out of the Party.

Fred Douglass Confirmed.

Farewell to Judge Davis.

Present to Mrs. Hayes.

Warmouth's Plan to Settle the Louisiana Difficulty.

CHICAGO, March 17.—The Tribune's Washington special says Gov. Warmouth has, at the request of the President, submitted his views concerning the proper mode for the adjustment of the Louisiana difficulties. It is in effect that the Louisiana constitution makes the legislature sole judge of the qualifications of its members. Louisiana lawyers gravely doubt whether the returning board, which is especially clothed with jurisdiction over the electoral vote, has authority to pass upon the credentials of the legislature. Warmouth admits the right of the board to do this as to uncontested seats but not as to contested ones, and proposes that Senators and Representatives whose seats are uncontested, shall meet and pass upon the contested ones regardless of the returning board; then both houses meet jointly, canvass the returns and declare the vote for Governor. This plan would give the Republicans on joint ballot a majority of 12, but Warmouth is confident a fair count would thus be secured and Nicholls be declared Governor in a constitutional and legal way. Warmouth and friends think this adjustment will be decided on by the cabinet Monday or Tuesday, and that the Vice President with a committee will go to New Orleans to effect the compromise. Troops cannot, of course, be withdrawn without an adjustment.

The Colored People's Position.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—Judge M. W. Gibbs, colored, an Arkansas elector on the Republican ticket, in an interview with the President this afternoon, remarked that the nomination of Key as Postmaster-General has excited some alarm among the colored people, but it was offset by the nomination of Douglass. He assured the President that the colored people intend to support him in his measures of reconciliation. Judge Gibbs says the President remarked in reply that he was sincere in his policy and would adhere to it, unless it should prove impracticable. For eight years the policy of force and the musket had been tried in the South, but had failed, and public sentiment now demanded a change.

Pinchback Turned Out.

NEW ORLEANS, March 17.—The Republican State central committee met at noon, and Pinchback was expelled from the organization by a vote of 22 to 4. A. Dumont, who during the campaign, was chairman of the campaign committee, was then elected president of the State central committee.

Cousins Must Take Back Seats.

NEW YORK, March 17.—The Tribune's Washington special says: Among the unsuccessful candidates for the U. S. Marshalship for the Northern District of Illinois, was Ammer Stillwell. He was admitted to a private audience with the President and presented his papers. The President carefully looked them through and then looking Stillwell in the face said: "Your papers are unexceptionable; there is nothing in your record which does not seem to show that you are fully qualified for the position, but there is one objection to your appointment to any Federal office; that is your wife is a favorite cousin of Mrs. Hayes." Stillwell left the Presidential office convinced that the fact which many thought would insure his appointment had rendered his defeat inevitable.

The Bar against Douglass.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—The Bar Association of the District of Columbia last night appointed a committee to wait upon the Senate and protest against the confirmation of Frederic Douglass as Marshal of the District.

Nominations Confirmed.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—The Senate confirmed the nomination of Frederick Douglass as U. S. Marshal for the District of Columbia and Henry Finck, U. S. Marshal for the Eastern district of Wisconsin.

A Farewell Testimonial.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—The bar of the supreme court of the United States, to take action as to the retirement of Judge Davis, met to-day. Ex-Senator Carpenter was called to the chair on motion of Secretary Evarts, and D. W. Middleton was made secretary. On motion the following committee was appointed to draft resolutions: M. S. Carpenter, ate Attorney General Geo. H. Williams, Hon. S. A. Phillips, R. T. Merry, J. H. Achton, Hon. Jos. Carey and Hon. W. Q. Gresham. The committee reported through Carpenter the following resolutions:

Resolved, That members of the bar of the Supreme Court of the United States have learned with deep regret of the resignation of Mr. Justice Davis.

Resolved, That they desire to record their sense of the learning, ability, love of justice, and fearless independence which he brought to the discharge of his great duties and their grateful appreciation of the courtesy which he has uniformly extended to them.

Resolved, That the chairman of the meeting be requested to communicate these resolutions to Judge Davis, and that the Attorney General be requested to present them to the Supreme Court and ask that they may be entered upon its minutes.

Carpenter said: Mr. Chairman, in moving the adoption of these resolutions, it is certainly unnecessary for me to make any remarks whatever beyond the motion itself. Every member of this bar has a high appreciation of the judicial services of Judge Davis, and I believe every member regrets his leaving the bench. His courtesy to the bar, his faithful discharge of all his duties, his willingness to meet all responsibilities which attached to the high office he has held, have met not only our approbation but excited our warmest admiration. I move, sir, that the resolutions be adopted.

Mr. Williams—Mr. Chairman, I rise to second the motion of my learned brother. I cordially concur in all he said as to the merits of Mr. Justice Davis. Everybody in this country acquainted with the Supreme Court will feel the loss which the judiciary has sustained in his retirement from the bench, but it is some consolation to know that what the judicial department of the government has lost, the legislative department has gained by his election to the Senate. I do not consider it necessary to add anything more to the expression contained in the resolutions.

The resolutions were then unanimously adopted.

On motion of ex-Attorney General Williams the meeting adjourned.

Present to Mrs. Hayes.

Mrs. Ira Elder, of New York, presented to Mrs. President Hayes, to-day, an elegantly bound copy of the Centennial temperance volume, with the following note: "Still in thy right hand carry gentle peace to silence envious tongues. Be just and fear not."—Henry VIII.

NATIONAL TEMPERANCE SOCIETY, 58 READE ST.,
NEW YORK, 17 March,
ST. PATRICK'S DAY.

HON. WM. ERLODGE TO MRS PRESIDENT HAYES—My Dear Madam: With sentiments appropriate to this anniversary, so cherished by my nation, and with an earnest appreciation of the favor you have already exhibited for our cause, I have pleasure in offering to you, through the hand of Mrs. Ira Elder, this Centennial Temperance Volume, with some minor publications. Please accept them, with our best wishes for the prosperity of yourself.

Very truly, your obedient servant,
JOHN FARRELL.

Mrs. Hayes accepted the book and very gracefully returned her thanks, saying: the cause of temperance was very sacred, and should receive encouragement of the citizens, and the special aid of mothers.

Parting Respects.

At the reception this evening many Senators paid their parting respects to President and Mrs. Hayes. The exodus North and South began to-night. Numbers of prominent politicians here since the adjournment of Congress have decided to linger.

THE EASTERN QUESTION.

Release of Prisoners.

BELGRADE, March 17.—A. Jubibrotich, one of the principal leaders of the Herzegovinan insurrection, who was imprisoned by the Austrian authorities a year ago, is to be released. It is said Austria has issued a general amnesty to her subjects, who joined the insurgents in Turkey.

Ignatieff in London.

LONDON, March 17.—Gen. Ignatieff dined at the Russian embassy yesterday. Lord Salisbury and the foreign ambassadors were present.

The Protocol.

VIENNA, March 17.—In settling the terms of the protocol Russia has surrendered the idea of reviving the last clause of the Berlin memorandum according to which, should the present effort not lead to the desired result, the powers should consult about further steps. Instead of this clause is substituted one by which the powers reserve to themselves any point with decisions. In such an eventuality this reservation is intended to establish the difference between diplomatic and armed intervention.

Candian Disaffection.

PERA, March 17.—The disaffection in Candia is very general. Over 200 families lately emigrated to Greece.

Ignatieff's Movements.

LONDON, March 18.—Gen. Ignatieff attended a reception at the foreign office yesterday, and in the evening left for the country seat of the Marquis of Salisbury, whom he will meet there, and also the Earl of Derby, Sir Stafford Northcote, Mr. Aschton, Shelton Cross, the Austrian and Italian ambassadors, Marquis of Harlington and Mr. Goschen. Gen. Ignatieff will dine with the Earl of Beaconsfield on Monday, have an audience with the Queen on Tuesday, and leave for the continent, according to present arrangements, on Thursday.

Grecians in Trouble.

A dispatch to the Times from Pera states that a revolutionary committee at Athens has sent a circular to various committees in Crete, declaring that a watchword to rise will soon be given.

Arabs Revolting.

The Arab tribes of Yemen have revolted, and the Turkish commander of that district asks for reinforcements.

Effects of the Protocol.

LONDON, March 18.—It is believed the agreement between England and Russia relative to the protocol, will render a continuation of negotiations between Turkey and Montenegro possible. It is stated that if negotiations are continued, both sides will order their commands to continue on the defensive when the armistice expires on Tuesday.

Le Nord of Brussels says the protocol not only assures peace but the accord of Europe. It is, however, as well to warn the public against jumping to the conclusion that the pacific solution is already completely certain. The important point must not be forgotten that while Europe has come to an agreement Turkey so far has only made promises. If the Porte continues in its old course the prospect of a conflict may be renewed, but the protocol will at least give assurances that the conflict will be localized.

The Standard's correspondent at Paris says he has reason to believe that the foregoing was telegraphed from St. Petersburg and represents the views of the Russian court.

The Post publishes the following in official form: The government still awaits the Russian answer. We may have to remain in an expectant attitude for a day or two when Russia's decision on the modification suggested by England are ascertained.

The Daily News' dispatch from Constantinople favors the idea that the understanding between Russia and England will be followed by a pacific arrangement between Montenegro and Turkey.

The Standard's correspondent at Pesth says the Porte is displaying a very conciliatory spirit towards Montenegro. It still refuses to cede any fortified places, but is more accommodating in relation to other demands.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

Notable Death.

LONDON, March 17.—Charles Cowder Clarke, the English lecturer and author, died at Genoa.

Von Arnim Dying.

BERLIN, March 17.—Count Von Arnim is reported dying at Nice.

The Laws for Alsace and Lorraine.

The Government intends introducing a bill in the Reichstag empowering the Emperor to publish the laws for Alsace and Lorraine after they have passed the Federal Council and the Alsace and Lorraine committee, but with the previous consent of the Reichstag the majority of the moderate liberals will claim the Reichstag's right to vote such legislation.

The Reichstag, after a four hours debate, voted for a first reading of the bill empowering the Emperor to decree laws for Alsace and Lorraine committee, but without the previous consent of the Reichstag. The chief speakers were Alsatians and Lothringians, of whom the so called protest deputies opposed the bill, whereas the autonomists supported the measure of conciliation and practical policy, making at the same time an important declaration, namely: we are neither a government party nor systematic oppositionists; we wish to move onward with the government so long as it promises a progressive policy.

Bismarck's Speech.

German papers continue to comment on Bismarck's speech upon the organization of Imperial ministers. The Hanoverian Courier, a national liberal paper, influenced by Benningsen, president of the Prussian diet, has a specially interesting article, which concludes as follows: "We openly profess that the real obstacle to a better organization of the Imperial government is the Chancellor's personal behaviour and autocratic nature." A correspondent remarks, never before would the national liberal papers have dared to publish anything like this.

The Man who Threw the Eggs at Malino.

Vice Chancellor Malino, on taking his seat to-day, said the man Cosgrove, who threw an egg at him yesterday as the court adjourned, and whom he committed for contempt, on being searched in prison, was found to have a loaded pistol in his pocket. Cosgrove's sanity is being inquired into.

Cable Rates Reduced.

LONDON, March 17.—On and after the 26th inst. the Anglo-American Telegraph Co. will transmit political and general news for publication at 6 pence per word, when the cables are disengaged.

Riot in Berne.

BERNE, March 18.—Internationalists made a demonstration here on the occasion of the anniversary of the outbreak of the Paris commune. The police seized the red flag which was borne in the procession. The crowd resisted and sabres and knives were used. Several gen d' armes and Internationalists were wounded.

MEXICO.

Iglesias' Manifesto.

NEW ORLEANS, March 17.—Iglesias has published a manifesto as Constitutional President of the Mexican Republic. After recounting the circumstances of his departure from Mexico, and the news of the success of Diaz, he says: In circumstances so critical, when already everything had been lost on the Pacific coast, my further residence in San Francisco no longer had an object. It was then I determined to repair to this city, where I might be more immediately informed of such events as might occur in the Republic. We have received confirmation of the news previously brought regarding the deep perturbance, loss of prestige, and irremediable anarchy which sacks the country, pinned down by force of bayonets to the Government of Turtepec. This hybrid creation exhibits every symptom of dissolution. Under the solemnity of vow, I deemed it my duty once more to send forth my voice to the people whom I have the honor legally to represent. This statement of my acts sufficiently explains why I have come to a foreign land. If I find myself now under its hospitality it is because when I left my native soil even temporarily, I had not, nor have I yet, a hand's breadth of Mexican soil on which I could place my foot without danger of surrender to a triumphant fact on. If I succeed in getting under my control any portion of the national territory. I shall repair thither to re establish my lawful government. This is a living promise of mine because it lives for the performance of a sacred duty, which I never shall belie. When Lesbard of Pharsalin referred to the disasters of Pompei, he contrasted the assault of the gods of Olympus, the champions of the conquering cause, with the solitary dissent of Cato; the cause which this day is the worsted cause in Mexico depends on the maintenance of public opinion, on aspirations in its favor of the more soundly thinking portion of society. The worsted cause may be easily converted into the triumphant cause, through the irresistible power of national will. If the American people will only rally round the labarum the sign of which must lead them to victory, the constitutional banner must still continue to wave under the protection of law.

Mexican Affairs.

SAN DIEGO, March 8.—News from Guaymas, Sonora, to the 9th, says the presidential question is regarded as settled. Candidates for governor of Sonora at the June election are being announced. Gen. Marescal is one, and seems very popular.

The Pesqueras have been asked to retire to their homes without penalties, but are not expected to engage in politics.

Guaymas people have renewed hopes of a railroad to the Arizona line.

WASHINGTON CITY.

District Commissioners.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—A delegation of prominent business men called upon the President to-day, asking the appointment of two out of the three Commissioners for this District from among citizens whose interests are identified with the property of the District.

Complaints against Bancroft Davis.

NEW YORK, March 17.—A Washington special says many Americans have filed complaints against Bancroft Davis, Minister to Berlin, for discourtesy and graver offences.

Asking a Reduction.

CHICAGO, March 17.—The Journal's Washington special says: A. C. Hessing, whisky ringster, is in Washington trying to get his fine reduced from $300,000 to $100,000. This will be made a test case.

The Charges against Conant.

Secretary Sherman denies as scandalous and false the stories about Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Conant. The author of them is W. B. Moore, who is made chief special agent in return for his services in ferreting out the alleged Bristow conspiracy against President Grant.

Postal Changes.

WASHINGTON, March 18.—Postoffice changes on the Pacific coast: Offices established—Thurston, Lane county, Oregon, [illegible] Hunsaker, postmaster; Umpqua Ferry, Douglas county, Oregon, John C. Chambrock, postmaster; Tehama, Marion county, Oregon, John J. Blair, postmaster; postmasters appointed—E. J. Spratling, Bethel, Polk county, Oregon; Joseph Gaston, Gaston, Washington county, Oregon.

SENATE EXTRA SESSION.

Senatorial Committees.

WASHINGTON, March 17.

Morton this morning formally declined the chairmanship of the foreign relations committee and the position will be taken by [illegible] who has accepted.

Ferry is made chairman of the postal committee.

Grover's Case.

After a long discussion the Senate by 39 to 8 adopted a resolution authorizing the sub-elections committee of three to visit Oregon during recess, if deemed expedient, and examine into the charges against Senator Grover. The following is the vote:

Yeas—Allison, Anthony, Bayard, Bruce, Blaine, Bogy, Booth, Chaffee, Christiancy, Cock, Conkling, Davis of Illinois, Dorsey, Eaton, Garland, Hamlin, Hoar, Howe, Johnston, Jones of Nevada, McMillan, McPherson, Maxey, Mitchell, Morgan, Morrill, Morton, Oglesby, Paddock, Patterson, Randolph, Rollins, Sargent, Saunders, Spencer, Teller, Wadleigh, Windom and Withers—39.

Nays—Cockrell, Davis of West Virginia, Hereford, McCreery, Merrimon, Wallace and Whyte—8.

It was agreed to print [illegible] a copy of the monetary commissioners report.

The committee on printing and to audit and control the contingent expenses of the Senate were authorized to sit during recess.

The Senate then went into executive session.

The Grover Committee.

Senators Morton, McMillan and Saulsbury are the committee to enquire into the charges against Senator Grover.

Douglass' Confirmation.

In executive session of the Senate to-day, there was a debate lasting an hour and a half concerning the nomination of Frederick Douglass. Senator Conkling made the principal speech in favor of confirmation, and Senator Whyte was the most prominent of the few speakers against it. The arguments advanced by the opposition were addressed solely to the question of the business qualifications of Douglass for this particular appointment, and especially since it was said upon the fact the bar associates opposed his nomination on the ground that, in their opinion, he could not successfully administer the affairs of the office. The nomination was, however, confirmed on ayes and nay vote by 5 or 6 majority. No Republican voted against it, and Hill, Beck and Garland, with one or two other Democrats, voted for its confirmation. It is understood that Lamar, who was absent on account of illness, would have voted if aye, if present.

Vice President's Reply to Vote of Thanks.

When the doors were reopened the thanks of the Senate were voted to the Vice President, who replied as follows: "Senators, I thank you sincerely for the complimentary manner in which you have alluded to my manner of discharging my duties during my brief occupancy of the chair. I came among you almost wholly a stranger and a stranger to your rules. I trust in the future to be better acquainted with both. Renewing my thanks, I declare the Senate adjourned without day."

THE POLK COUNTY JAIL QUESTION.

INDEPENDENCE, March 13, 1877.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Pursuant to notice the citizens of Independence and surrounding precincts met at the schoolhouse to protest against the building of a county jail at Dallas at the present time.

James Tatom, of Dixie precinct, was chosen President; Henry Hill, of Independence, Vice President; F. H. Wakefield, of Buena Vista precinct, Secretary.

A committee of three, consisting of M. Rosendorf, M. L. Pipes and L. W. Robertson presented the following resolutions which were unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, A petition has been presented to the county court of Polk county, at the March term, praying for an appropriation to build a county jail at Dallas; and

WHEREAS, The last Legislature of the State of Oregon passed an act enabling the people of Polk county, at the next general election to vote on the question of relocating the county seat of said county; therefore,

Resolved, That it is the sense of this meeting that no money from the county treasury should be expended on any county building until the people have decided by their votes where the county seat shall be permanently located.

Resolved, That we would consider an appropriation for building purposes at the present time a waste of public money.

Resolved, That the thanks of the people are due to the honorable County Court for refusing to appropriate money for the above purpose until the people had an opportunity to express their wishes on the subject.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions and the proceedings of this meeting be sent to the Dallas Itemizer and OREGONIAN with a request to publish the same.

A committee of four, consisting of Jack Irvine, James Tatom, E. Cox and L. W. Robertson, were chosen to canvass the county for signatures to the remonstrance. Adjourned.

JAMES TATOM, Pres't.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY.

The Celebration in New York.

NEW YORK, March 17.—The police commissioners gave orders that the streets be thoroughly cleaned for the processionists of to-day, but a snow-storm coming up last evening and continued throughout the night made the cleaning impossible. The Irishmen in line, which is not as extended as that of other years, are as enthusiastic as ever. Neither bands nor banners are as numerous as heretofore. The American and Irish flags floated in unison from many flagstaffs. The day will be closed by balls and banquets.

Brooklyn and other adjacent cities had parades with the atmosphere and temperature as uncomfortable as that of New York.

Chicago.

CHICAGO, March 17.—St. Patrick's Day dawned bright and cheerful, and though the ground was covered with heavy snow, processions formed in various parts of the city at an early hour, and after church services had been held, paraded the streets to the number of about 8,000. The chief features of the procession were the Second regiment, various Catholic temperance societies and civic organizations.

Richmond.

RICHMOND, March 17.—A hail and snow storm prevailed during the public parade of the St. Patrick order. In the evening a theatrical performance was given for the benefit of the poor.

In New England.

BOSTON, March 17.—In many New England cities there were parades.

Memphis.

MEMPHIS, March 17.—St. Patrick's day was celebrated by the various Irish societies by a procession and the usual religious exercises.

Charleston.

CHARLESTON, S. C., March 17.—St. Patrick's parade included all the white military companies whose appearance in public under arms was forbidden on Washington's birthday.

St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, March 17.—St. Patrick's day was celebrated here in the manner usual with Irish citizens, and a banquet to-day. O'Connor Power, member of the English parliament, is present, and, it is said, will reply to the toast "the day we celebrate."

Washington City.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—Gen. Sherman made his appearance at the dinner of the Friendly Sons of Ireland, and made an elegant response to the toast to the army. President Hayes reviewed the procession, the bands as they passed playing "Hail to the Chief."

Brooklyn.

Hon. Thomas Kinsella, editor of the Brooklyn Eagle, presided at the banquet in that city, and Rev. Wm. Keegan, well known throughout the country, responded to the toast, "The day we celebrate."

San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 17.—St. Patrick's day was celebrated with considerable spirit by the Irish population. The procession was quite imposing in point of numbers, the military display especially fine, and various benevolent and other civic societies turned out in full strength. The literary exercises were held at Union Hall. President of the Day M. Warde, delivered a brief address; J. P. Cosgrove read a poem and P. F. Walsh officiated as orator. The programme was interspersed with music. This evening several balls, banquets and other social gatherings will wind up the festivities. Reports from the interior show the day to have been generally observed in the principal towns. When the procession in honor of St. Patrick, arrived in front of Union Hall where the literary exercises were held, a great rush occurred for entrance, during which a number of people were badly crushed and bruised. One boy was taken out of the crowd supposed to be dead, but was revived and taken away. Several women fainted, but no one sustained injuries of a dangerous nature.

OREGON.

The Brownsville woolen mills are running at their full capacity, and turning out fine goods.

Mrs. Marton, of East Chehalem, has become insane from grief over the burning of a child a year ago.

A coal mine has been discovered near Myrtle Creek, Douglas county, and a company organized to work it.

The Courier says a great many small bridges in the Yamhill country have been washed out by the late rains.

The river has been very high at Eugene, but has done no serious damage. It is now at good boating stage.

The Independent says apples are still hanging on the trees on Calapooia creek, Douglas county, and are perfectly sound.

The Guard suggests "bulldozing with fine shot" as a remedy for the hoodlumism with which Eugene people are greatly annoyed.

A female child was found last week in the mill race at McMinnville, supposed to have been drowned by its mother, who is not known.

The Umpqua, it is reported, has been higher during the recent freshet than for several years before. Persons engaged in logging on the stream have lost heavily by their logs floating out to sea.

From the Mercury we learn that a company boring for coal on Pass creek, Douglas county, were, on the 15th inst., rewarded with success, striking coal of excellent quality at the depth of about 00 feet.

A letter from Ochoco to the Dalles Tribune reports the weather delightful, the grass green and growing, and everything pleasant in that county, with only one foot of snow on the Cascade Mountains on the McKenzie road.

The Douglas Plaindealer gives information that a Mrs. Collins, wife of a farmer on Deer creek, eloped last Monday with a colored man named George Christopher, leaving her husband and two children. The husband followed to Roseburg, where he recovered the horse his wife had ridden from the farm. The woman and her paramour came north on the train. The husband is not desirous of her return.

At a meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Christian Church of the State of Oregon, held at Dallas, Polk County, Oregon, February 24, 1877, on motion, A. W. Lucas was elected President of said Board, Thomas B. Newman Secretary; I. Levens, Vice-President, and R. S. Crystal Treasurer. On motion it was ordered that the Secretary proceed to have the deed of Camp Ground made to said Board of Trustees.

Rockwel Jackson, in order to enter his homestead claim, which lies on both sides of the line between Oregon and California, was compelled to make a journey on horseback of 700 miles. He first went to Humboldt, 100 miles, to enter that part of the claim lying in California, and after that was accomplished he had to come to Roseburg, 250 miles, to enter that part lying on this side of the line—in this way making a journey of 700 miles.

The Roseburg Independent of the 10th inst. says: Yesterday we witnessed the crushing of some ore in a common druggist's mortar, which was quite rich. It came from the Fullerton ledge, located 20 miles this side of the Lucky Queen, and was brought in by George Ross. The ore was washed out after crushing in a gold pan, in the bottom of which remained fifty or more particles of fine gold. Such ore would assay about $600 to the ton.

A Roseburg paper says Tuesday evening burglars entered the house of Jesse Davenport and took therefrom $15 in money and some tobacco and cigars. Entrance was effected through one of the side windows and the money taken from the pocket of a pair of pants which Davenport had placed under his head before retiring to sleep. The robbery was not discovered until Wednesday morning. There is no clue to lead to the detection of the burglar.

A New Bonanza.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 17.—The Post in its stock articles this evening gives account of an alleged discovery of a new bonanza lying east of the Comstock lode and parallel with and abreast of the Consolidated Virginia, Best & Belcher, Gould & Curry and Hale & Norcross. The article states the formation was discovered by running a diamond drill eastward from the workings of the above mentioned mines. It is held that from this fissure has come an immense volume of water which has so long deluged the lower levels of the Savage and Hale & Norcross. To test the question samples of water from these mines were evaporated and the sediment being analyzed was found to correspond with the composition of the ore taken from the drill holes. The matter has been kept secret by the managers and a cross-cutting in the direction of this new bonanza has been carried on with caution, as the aim was to drain the water from the ledge before tapping it, fearing that a flow of water might follow that would stop work in the mines. It is estimated that in a few weeks it will be safe to begin cross-cutting to develop the ledge. This statement seems to be received on the street with distrust, owing probably in part to a general lack of confidence lately shown by outside operators, and the fact that the Post at the same time been "bullish" in the tone of its stock articles.

Sanitary Report.

One hundred and twenty deaths were recorded at the health office during the past week, a reduction of [illegible] from the previous. There is a marked decrease in deaths from diphtheria, being only 22 against 33 last week. The irrigation of sewers is considered to have have a favorable effect. Nineteen new cases of small-pox were reported during the week and eight deaths from that disease.

Reward Offered.

The Chico Murder.

CHICO, March 17.—This morning excitement prevailed all through town when it became known that a number of citizens had received threatening notices. These notices were all mailed last night after 8 o'clock and read:

BRITISH COLUMBIA.

Demonstration by the Families of Miners.

VICTORIA, March 17.—The miners imported to work in the Wellington coal mines returned to town yesterday. On arriving at Wellington they were met by about 50 women and 150 children, representing the families of the [illegible] and asked if they were going to take the bread out of the mouths of helpless people. The new comers replied "No," and refused to work. The miners' Union paid their fare back to Victoria. The owners of the mine have shut it down indefinitely.

Indian Affairs.

SAN DIEGO, March 18.—A special to the Union from Tucson this evening says: Agent Clum of San Carlos reservation, is out in a long letter in the Citizen on Indian affairs and Gov. Safford also signifies his intention to exhaustively review Gen. Kautz's late long statement.

Gov. Safford and several others leave for San Francisco on Monday to arrange for the machinery for the Mohave county mine.

After the unfortunate termination of Mr. Stillwell's application for the office of marshal, we heard nothing in saying the average politician will not exhaust himself in tracing up the genealogy of his wife in order to discover her relationship to the Hayes family. Indeed, the chances are the President will have as few kinsfolk as the humblest citizen in the land. We can think of several people in Oregon who, unless we are greatly in error, would take a solemn oath that neither they nor theirs are connected in the remotest degree with Hayes or his.

It is proposed to try a new experiment in journalism in London. A sixpenny weekly is to be issued, each number of which is to contain a humorous description of some particular class of English society. These are to be illustrated with woodcuts, to make the point clearer.

BULLDOSE.

PORTLAND, March 13, 1877.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Don't you think possibly "bulldose," the present fashionable and truly elegant phrase, may have meant originally bedosed? Here are some lines of Zimmerman's written in his dear old solitude:

"Turn we awhile on lonely man our eyes,
And see what frantic scenes of folly rise.
In some dark monastery's gloomy cells,
Where [illegible] self promising virtue dwells,
Bedos'd with dreams of [illegible]
Of holy puddles, [illegible]
Or animated plaster, wood or stone,
And mighty saints [illegible]
Permit me muse still farther to explore,
And turn the leaves of composition o'er, etc."

Can you tell me where to find an invocation or address to sleep? Is there one in Southey? I thought it in Coleridge, but cannot find it. I do not mean that in the Ancient Mariner, and have not had time to look through carefully the rest of Coleridge.

THE TERRITORIES.

The Seattle Intelligencer states that the Bellingham Bay coal mine has suspended operation.

Portions of the [illegible] ton road were submerged [illegible] water, and transportation of coal was temporarily suspended.

NO FAVORITE COUSINS FOR THIS TERM.

It is evident the President is not going to have so many brothers, brothers-in-law, cousins, and so on, as his illustrious predecessor. A gentleman, willing and well qualified to serve his country in an official way, called upon the President Saturday last, and asked to be appointed United States Marshal for the northern district of Illinois. That is the district in which the famous father-in-law of the more famous General Babcock distinguished himself as marshal by divers misdeeds, and it is quite likely the applicant to President Hayes thought there could be no objection under the civil service rules to the placing of a new man in the position. And so doubtless there was not. At least it does not appear that any plea was made that the office was already efficiently and properly filled. Still, the applicant did not get his wish. On the contrary, he got an answer which would seem to set his ambition at rest for a good while. "You are well qualified for the office," said the President, "You are a good man; but then your wife is the favorite cousin of Mrs. Hayes, and that is an insuperable barrier to your appointment, not only to the office of marshal, but to any federal office whatever." The husband of the favorite cousin retired with a new idea. The very fact which he had no doubt considered a source of great strength to him had caused the rejection of his suit.

The first thought on reading this dispatch is that possibly the President may push his notions of propriety further than is necessary. It has been so much the custom, of late, for the President to take care of his and his wife's relatives, and for Senators to see to it that their families and the families of their wives are provided for at the public table, that it seems rather a harsh rule that denies to those holding such relations to the chief magistrate to be put aside because they do hold such relations. The whole country has come to accept the proposition that the election of a man to the office of President or Senator is the election of the members of his family to whatever subordinate positions they may happen to want. But the President is right. Since there are other persons worthy and qualified for the offices, he will avoid criticism, and secure greater confidence in the purity of his administration by declining to give offices to his family and kin. Nepotism is inherently vicious, and it is always seized upon and its evils magnified by those who are on the watch for cause of complaint. The confidence and esteem of the masses of the people being the foundation and support of popular government, whatever gives occasion for complaint and misconstruction should be carefully avoided whenever it can be without the sacrifice of any public interest. The appointment of Stillwell to the office he asked, however proper in itself, [illegible] the signal for the whole gang of soured politicians to open on the President. Gray, Blanche and Sweetheart would immediately give tongue, and the cry of nepotism would reverberate over the land, both from the Bourbon quarter of the Democratic party and from the machinists of the Republican party who would be only too glad to find Hayes slipping in the same matter that added so greatly to the unpopularity of the last years of his predecessor. Nothing would gratify the cripples in the [illegible] party more than to be able to charge home upon Hayes the same fault that brought public condemnation on themselves and the chief who lately had their support through thick and thin. But Hayes, it seems, has too clear an apprehension of the mission, too keen a sense of propriety, and too much firmness of purpose, to give his political enemies and the enemies of his policy the pleasure of witnessing his fall. Every step he has taken, thus far, evinces wisdom and sagacity and discretion worthy of Abraham Lincoln.

AN INDECENT CONTEST.

[illegible] Commodore Vanderbilt is not a lawful will, the heirs have an unquestionable right to go into the courts to get that which is their own; but there is something very unseemly in their making a contest simply on the ground that he made an unequal distribution of his wealth. His vast fortune was the product of his own hand and brain, not the accumulations of a long family line preceding him. He made it and he had the right to dispose of it. If he had chosen to give it all to some public charity, or to found a seat of learning with it, to the exclusion of his children, people might wonder at his decision, but who would dare say he had not the moral right to appropriate it that way? And when it is considered first that his children are all wealthy, and, second, that while he made an unequal distribution of his own fortune among them, giving the bulk of it to the son who had displayed greatest capacity to take care of it and increase it, he did nevertheless give to each of the [illegible] a sum which would be generally regarded as a splendid fortune in itself, the impropriety of the contest making by some of them assumes the character of a positive indecency. By the will no child gets a less sum than $500,000, that being the amount bequeathed to each of his daughters. Vanderbilt was quoted as saying that it was better for women not to have much money, which is perhaps the explanation of his giving his daughters, all of whom have rich husbands, only half a million apiece. At any rate that is all they got, and a part of them, along with Cornelius Vanderbilt, junior, have determined to try the power of the law to thwart the wishes of their father. Mrs. Osgood, one of the daughters, in a noble, filial spirit, declines to have any part or lot in the contest, and insists that her father's wishes with respect to [illegible] which was his own ought to be a law to all persons and especially to his children; and in this her husband sustains her. But the others, or most of them, will hear to nothing but an attempt to overturn the will, and, it is said, threaten to make damaging disclosures concerning the old man's personal life for the last twenty-five years, unless Wm. H. Vanderbilt, the son to whom the greater part of the estate is left, consents to such a division as they shall dictate. This is denounced by friends of the commodore, as a bull-dozing scheme, as they assert there is nothing in the private history of the old gentleman which any need fear to have brought to light. Surely it is a dirty business. To enter into a judicial scramble for a dead father's money is ugly enough at best; but when a threat to blacken his name is resorted to to force a division, words fail to express the disgust with which right-minded people must regard the proceeding.

The murder of a number of Chinese laborers at Chico, last week, has aroused the people of that region, and liberal rewards are offered for the detection and apprehension of the perpetrators of the terrible crime. Do the people realize that this bloody act is but the legitimate fruit of an agitation that has been going on for a long time, and with the countenance and encouragement of classes who would shudder at the thought of imbuing their hands in the blood of a fellow-being, even though that fellow-being were a Chinaman? An anti-Chinese Molly Maguire association at the town where the murder was committed promptly disavowed the crime, and denounced the perpetrators; but when rewards are doubled up to such an extent as to tempt the cupidity and quicken the vigilance of those whose official duty it is to hunt down the murderers, a notice comes to them that it will not be safe to pursue the matter. Who is it that sends such notices? The question needs no answer, for every one knows who it is. The Governor of California does well to offer a reward for the apprehension of the murderers. So do the rest who add to the reward. But is the Governor free from responsibility for this crime? Is any bawling politician free from that responsibility, who has been making his way in the world by joining in the senseless and inhuman clamor against Chinamen? It may be fortunate that this shocking outrage has taken place, for it may awaken the people to a sense of the dangers they are courting, and thus prevent a greater slaughter. But if the matter is to stop with a spasmodic effort to bring to justice the perpetrators of this particular crime, it might almost as well stop without that effort. It is not the avenging of the death of half a dozen defenseless Chinamen at Chico, but the protection of the lives and property of Americans and Chinamen generally that is involved. That the presence of the Chinaman on this coast causes embarrassment to some industrious white men, we shall not presume to question. Nor shall we attempt to ignore the fact that the continued influx of Asiatics presents a problem of no little difficulty for American civilization to solve. But John Chinaman has come to America to stay. That may as well be taken as an established fact. The question for the American laborer is whether to his superior physical strength and the natural advantage which identity of race and language gives him, he will add the advantage of honest industry, sobriety, faithfulness and economy, and thus remain master of the field, leaving the Chinaman to make his way in the lowest employments such as Americans do not care to pursue, or whether he will degenerate into a brute and attempt to relieve himself of Asiatic competition by killing Chinamen. What may be in the future the future will reveal, but the time has not yet come when sober and industrious white men, who can be relied upon for steady work need be afraid of having to work for Chinaman's wages or be thrust aside by a Chinaman competitor.

The Eastern question is still as incomprehensible as ever. Russia and Turkey both continue to talk of peace, and make a languid show of preparing for war. Germany, Austria and England have done nothing in the matter of late but publish contradictory newspaper dispatches from date, and accompany them with editorial comments, sufficiently indefinite to have an oracular sound. If the preparations for war go on, the Christian subjects of the Ottoman empire, of the present generation, will hardly live to see a determination of the question of the future policy of the government toward them. But they have the consolation of enjoying a respite from Mussulman oppression during the pending of the quarrel, as the Turk is endeavoring to impress the Western nations with his disposition to deal fairly with the Christian provinces. Perhaps it is well enough, in this view that the final settlement is delayed. The provinces may become more self reliant, and the Turk may learn that he can get along as well without oppressing them.

The Senate has determined to have a committee come out to Oregon during the vacation this summer to investigate the charges against Senator Grover. That is a proper course. If Grover is guilty of the acts charged against him, he should be promptly expelled from the Senate. It is to be hoped the committee will make thorough work of it, and that no stone will be left unturned to prove his corruption, if he has been corrupt. And if the charges are unfounded, justice to Grover and to the State requires that he should be completely vindicated, not whitewashed. The people of Oregon can not afford to have their entire delegation in the United States Senate tainted with corruption, nor can Grover afford to sit in the Senate with such a cloud upon his name. A person with no reputation to lose, a known corruptionist, might hold under such circumstances; but no man whose reputation is worth preserving would be willing to do so.

It is hardly likely we shall hear much more from the machinists about the necessity of having straight party tickets in the municipal elections, since the cabinet of a Republican President of the United States is made up of outspoken Independents and Democrats as well as Republicans.

HARP AND SUNBURST.

FITTING TRIBUTE TO IRELAND'S PATRON SAINT—ST. PATRICK'S DAY OBSERVED BY THE IRISH CITIZENS OF PORTLAND—PARADE, MUSIC, ORATION AND BALL.

We love the memory of the brave,
The faithful and the few;
Some lie far off beyond the wave,
Some sleep in Ireland too.

All, all are gone! but still live on
The fame of those who died—
All true men, like you, men,
Remember them with pride.

Oh! call your children, Erin!
Call with a prophet's cry;
Bid them link in Union Erin,
And act like men, or die.

From the Orient to the Occident; from the great city where thousands swelled the pageant to the quiet hamlet on the borders of the primeval wilderness, the national holiday of Ireland has been celebrated with military pomp and social gatherings, with martial music and with sacred song; in the comfortable home of the prosperous merchants and the lowly cottage of the humble tailer, everywhere through the length and breadth of the land the sons of Erin, with an admixture of American indepence and love of fatherland, have honored the anniversary of their Patron Saint and testified their loyalty to the land of their adoption. They are a nation for the day, as happy, if not more united, than when O'Neil, from his mountain fastness, dictated terms to the courtly Essex, or when Sarsfield in his fortress on the Shannon, defied the stern Prince of Orange. A people without a parallel, with a religion, in the defense of which they have gladly suffered persecution, and a government to overthrow which has been the ambition of their lives, and at their death will become the heritage of their sons. Brave and generous to a fault, yet prone to dissension and partisan in the extreme. Saturday the Irish forgot their past differences, and strove only to honor in the way which to each seems best the memories of the

"The rich and rare and,
The fresh and fair land of their birth."

Bright, pleasant and beautiful broke the light of day Saturday on this land, so proverbial for its clouds and mists, and the prospect of a genial day for the celebration of the recurring anniversary of Ireland's Patron Saint was most propitious.

Thirteen hundred and fifty-five years ago the initial celebration of St. Patrick's Day was held in Ireland, and through the long vista of past years his memory has always been carefully observed and his merits instilled into the minds of the children of Ireland. We are told that by St. Patrick was Ireland's past greatness achieved. The thought of what he did for Ireland and the world spurs on every Irishman, and causes him to feel that once again Ireland may be free and take her place among the nations of the earth.

PROCESSION—ROUTE OF MARCH.

At the usual hour in the forenoon, the customary religious exercises of the day were held at St. Mary's Cathedral, corner Stark and Third streets.

One o'clock was the hour designated for the procession to move. Long before that time Chief Marshal M. Gleason began the formation of the procession. The procession was arranged in the following order: Northwestern Band, City Rifles, Emmet Guard, Hibernian Benevolent Society, St. Michael's College Band, Father Matthew T. A. B. Society, followed by a number of carriages, in which were seated the Catholic Clergy of this Diocese, President of the Day, and invited guests.

Everything was in readiness about half past one o'clock, when the procession took up the line of march. After parading through several of the principal streets of the city, the head of the column was directed toward the Academy of the Sacred Heart, where the usual musical exercises were to take place.

AT THE ACADEMY.

Arriving at the Academy the gates were thrown open and the procession filed into the grounds surrounding the building. Hundreds of ladies, gentlemen and little folks, who had thronged the streets and sidewalks along the entire route of march, came pouring into the enclosure in the wake of the procession. As many spectators as could find convenient standing room were admitted by the guards stationed at the entrance. Notwithstanding the half block was densely crowded with a throng of humanity, scarcely a moiety of those who had crowded about the procession could gain admittance. A few minutes delay followed, during which time the procession was arranged about the neatly laid out grounds and walks. When order was restored, and the hum of human voices hushed in expectancy, the musical exercises under the direction of the Sisters, began. Arranged about the piazza, fronting eastward, were about 150 pupils, ranging in years from 9 to 18, attired in plain but scrupulously neat dresses. It was a gratifying sight to see the multitude of bright, girlish faces wreathed in sunny smiles. These school girls, with hearts brim full of happiness, under the control and direction of the placid, dignified sisters of the academy, presented a very gladsome scene, and constituted one of the most interesting features of the occasion. A number of beautiful songs were rendered by the pupils, fittingly accompanied by the historic harp, and were appropriately responded to by the band.

Exercises at the academy being concluded, the procession filed out through the narrow gateway, and on reaching Fourth street reformed and took up the line of march for the court house, where the literary exercises were to be held.

EXERCISES—ADDRESS.

Reaching the court house, the procession halted, and filing to the left marched up the stairway into the building. After the civic societies and military companies had entered and were comfortably seated, spectators were admitted until the large auditorium was densely packed.

Mr. Michael Gleason, grand marshal, called the large assemblage to order, and introduced the president of the day, Mr. W. J. Kelly.

After making a few introductory remarks, in which the president alluded to the time-honored observance of the day, and congratulated his Irish-American citizens that the time when the entire emancipation of Ireland was near at hand, he stated that the committee of arrangements had been unable to secure an orator for the occasion. However, he said, that he had received a brief address from the pen of James Doran, Esq. a patriotic Irish citizen of Portland, which would necessarily have to take the place of the usual oration. Mr. Doran, the writer, could not be present in person on the occasion, so the duty of reading the address would devolve upon the president. Mr. Kelly then proceeded to read the address in a loud, clear tone of voice, which was distinctly heard by the vast throng. The address was a scholarly and eloquent effort, couched in fitting language, and thoroughly permeated with the spirit and fire of the true, loyal Irish heart. It was in every respect worthy of the writer and the occasion. The address was listened to with the keenest interest, and frequently interrupted with earnest, hearty applause. Crowded state of our columns precludes the publication of Mr. Doran's address in its entirety. A few of the writer's concluding thoughts are too beautiful to lose, and we herewith

PRESENT THEM.

Thus it will be seen that our race has maintained a remarkable and conspicuous position among the civilized nations of the world, and contributed materially to uphold their individual honor as well as their national independence; and under the Providence of God we may be permitted not only to assist in defending the liberty of this country in the future, but to advance its literature, its science, its love for peace and good order, until it shall extend its genial and protective influences to every people on the face of the earth! As American citizens it shall ever be your duty to defend this liberty—the liberty of the people—which has been set up before the faces of tyrants, and in opposition to their power, by the heroes of one hundred years ago, and bequeathed to you as an inheritance whose value cannot be measured in silver and gold. You must not, however, confound liberty with a license to do wrong. The freedom of the human passions is not liberty, because such freedom enslaves the mind, the spirit, the soul, and causes the degradation of the body. You cannot continue to hold political freedom unless you comprehend its provisions and be prepared to judge of what is just from what is unjust. The liberties of the people of past ages were curtailed, and when it could be done with safety, wholly suppressed by crafty and unscrupulous men who gradually ascended to power, and held it at the expense of the nation. The freedom handed down to you did not come of itself; it was baptized in the blood of your forefathers and cradled in their ashes, and whatever advancement occurs in the future must be the consequence of your energy and faithfulness to good law, order and justice.

Men have stood before you with the title "great" affixed to their names who have said that the American Republic shall fall because history repeats itself, and the fate of others shall be its fate. If I were standing on the edge of eternity I would cry with my last breath, it is false! The Republic shall not fall until heaven's good will removes mankind to a better world. Do not, however, accept this as meaning that any other means than the united exertions of the people can sustain the Republic. It is committed into your hands in this generation, and from my confidence in you I am satisfied it shall not suffer wrong. Every individual person has a duty to perform in the interests of our country. If every one does a part, no matter how small, those questions which have agitated the public mind, will be easily solved, and peace and good fellowship placed upon a permanent basis. In committing your trust to the future generation, you must see that the men composing it, be instructed in all things essential to the welfare and importance of a free people; in all those things essential to the welfare of a great people, and finally in all those things that are, and shall be, essential to the welfare of a good people. Give them solid knowledge, so that they will not be imposed upon by those persons who connect themselves with a party press and are dragging it down from the position which, some years ago, it was about to assume. Teach them to form opinions from facts, and not from the defamatory language of those persons. Teach them how to distinguish right from wrong. Teach them common sense. Teach them science. Teach them to labor, every one according to his taste; but above all teach them temperance—not only in total abstinence from intoxicating liquors, but temperance in the use of food; for without these, virtue will not hold its ground; nor indeed a nation its freedom.

Oh! citizens of America, be alive to the interests of this great country. Study the principles which alone can guide men to true greatness, true happiness and lasting peace; and show to the rising generation by your example that you have a destiny in the future, far above the pleasures derived from the reckless intemperance of the present hour. Fulfill to the letter, as you have heretofore, the first great command to Adam: "Increase and multiply and fill the earth," regardless of the customs of those whose refined civilization would indicate their superiority; but, which is but the prelude to certain and total decay and death. Then, in the future, with liberty resting in the hearts of the people; with education advancing, and expanding the minds of your children and with peace and justice supreme throughout the land, you may quit the scenes of your earthly abors for a brighter home in the world to come, satisfied that you have contributed to the prosperity of your native or adopted country.

During the exercise preceding and following the reading of the address, the band discoursed several patriotic airs. The procession then marched out, was reformed, and the several organizations escorted by the bands to their respective halls and armories. So ended the parade for the day.

Although a little cloudy at intervals, a more pleasant and propitious day could not have been desired. While the procession was marching the proverbial "wealth, fashion and beauty of Portland" was out in full force, the sidewalks presenting one mass of surging and elbowing humanity, drifting along like a tide in the wake of the parade. Throughout the day no incident transpired which served to mar in the least the freedom and enjoyment of either participants or spectators. Fortunately no accidents are to be recorded. The highest degree of good feeling and harmony characterized the day's proceedings. To those having the management of the celebration are due the thanks of all our Irish American citizens for the pleasant and successful termination of the event.

THE BALL.

Among the largest and most thoroughly enjoyable social parties given in Portland for years, the one which came off last Saturday evening at Turn Halle must be accorded an enviable prominence. The affair was given under the auspices of that old and most thoroughly respectable organization—the Hibernian Benevolent Society. It was the 17th annual ball given by that Society in Portland, and closed in a fitting manner the exercises of the celebration. Turn Halle was a scene of mirth and hilarity such as is seldom witnessed. Over 150 couple were present during the evening, and the large, commodious hall was inadequate to meet the requirement of dancers. Participants entered with true Irish esprit into the pleasure of the evening, and the fleeting hours passed charmingly away, while busy feet were keeping time to the quick, enlivening movements of the quadrille, the gliding step of the mazourka, schottische and waltz, the dashing galop, or the exhilarating jig. Floor managers were urbane and attentive, and no one was neglected or allowed to play the "wall flower." Excellent music was furnished by Kay's string band, led by Profs. Parrott and Brenner, while Prof. Parrish performed his duty as prompter to the eminent satisfaction of all. The refreshments were prepared by that experienced and popular caterer, Emil Vautier. The affair must be set down as a decided social and financial success, and in every particular does credit to the members of the Society by whom it was given. Every person went away with a sense of complete satisfaction, while the treasury of the Society has reaped a substantial harvest of gold.

Thus wound to a pleasant conclusion the celebration of St. Patrick's Day for 1877.

NOTES FROM THE DALLES.

Our occasional correspondent writing from the above point under date of March 17th, sends the following:

Mud, mud, mud.

Pleasant days and rainy nights.

A wedding in high life on the tapis for next week.

The Lewiston boat has failed to return on time; cause not known.

The Columbia river is rising rapidly at this point—some five feet during Wednesday and Thursday last.

E. C. Pentland, of this city, is spending a few days at Judge Collins' place on the Columbia, to regain his health.

The infant son of Mr. John Anderson died in this city on Wednesday morning last, aged two years, after a short illness.

Mr. Lyon Newman and family are expected here on the first steamer from San Francisco, to make this city their future home.

The policy of President Hayes seems to give general satisfaction to both political parties in the community, and all quiet on the Columbia.

Fifty head of beef cattle from the stock farms of Schutz and Mobila were shipped from this city on Wednesday morning last, for the Portland market.

Mr. E. B. Hood, of this city, who has been absent for the past two weeks, returned on Thursday last with 124 head of horses, which he had purchased on the Umatilla reservation.

An infant son of J. W. French departed this life on Wednesday morning last, aged five months. The heartfelt sympathy of this community is extended to the family in their bereavement.

The O. S. N. Co.'s steamer Almota started on her first trip of the season for Lewiston, on Tuesday morning. We learn from Capt. Jas. Troup that Snake river is at a good stage for steamboat navigation.

Messrs. E. F. McFarland, E. Wingate, Z. F. Moody, and Mrs. N. W. Chapman, leading merchants of our city, have gone to San Francisco to purchase goods for their respective firms, for the spring trade.

The Keeler Family, at Moody's Hall, on Wednesday evening last, fully sustained their reputation as wonder workers to a crowded house, and were ahead of anything of the kind ever seen in this city.

A free and easy fight at the Pioneer Hotel on Tuesday evening last proved the efficiency of our valiant nightwatchman, Mr. R. Graham, and the way "Dick" straightened things up around there will teach them he means business. A few dollars for our city treasury will heal all wounds.

A writ of mandamus to compel E. P. Fitzgerald, mayor of this city, to deed a certain piece of land belonging to Dalles City to W. Lord, was argued and submitted before His Honor, Judge L. L. McArthur, at chambers, on Thursday, the 8th, and on Monday, the 12th, His Honor rendered a decision in favor of defendant. Our city "dads" can now take a good night's sleep. We learn, however, it is the intention of Mr. Lord to appeal the matter to the supreme court.

The very rapid rise in the Columbia during Wednesday and Thursday last, caused Mr. Holland, chief builder of the O. S. N. Co., to prepare for the launch of the new steamer, without delay, from their ship yard in this city; and with a force of 65 men, working all of Wednesday night, the launch was successfully made on Thursday morning at 10 o'clock, amid the cheers of 800 people who covered the O. S. N. bridge and the banks along the river. The boat rides upon the water as a thing of life, and is a valuable acquisition to the O. S. N. Co.'s fleet.

Hickory nuts, direct from Quincy, Illinois, San Francisco candies and bananas, at S. L. Stone's.

Two button French kid gloves, for $ at Mrs. Chas. Tichnor's.

The City of Chester will be here with a shipment of Noble Whisky to Millard & Van Schuyver, sole agents, 30 Front street, which she has brought direct from distillery via New York.

The Medical Institute of Dr. W. L. Adams, corner of First and Salmon streets, will be removed to Hood river in a few months. Till then chronic diseases of men and women will be treated in Portland as usual. An accomplished lady assistant to give baths to ladies and assist in their requests always in the office.

Johnson's Anodyne Liniment is, without doubt, the safest, surest and best remedy that has ever been invented for internal and external use. It is applicable to a great variety of complaints, and is equally beneficial for man or beast.

We have seen it stated in various papers throughout the country, that Agents for the sale of Sheridan's Cavalry Condition Powders were authorized to refund the money to any person who should use them and not be satisfied with the result. We doubted this at first, but the proprietors authorize us to say that it is true.

Lyon's Kathairon makes beautiful, glossy luxuriant hair, prevents its falling out or turning gray. It has stood the test of 40 years. Is charmingly perfumed, and has no rival.

Hagan's Magnolia Balm preserves and restores the complexion; removes freckles, tan and sallowness; makes the skin soft, white and delicate. Its application cannot be detected.

The People Want Proof.

There is no medicine prescribed by physicians or sold by druggists, that carries such evidence of its success and superior virtue as Boschee's German Syrup for severe Coughs, Colds settled on the breast, Consumption, or any disease of the Throat and Lungs. A proof of that fact is that any person afflicted, can get a Sample Bottle for 10 cents and try its superior effect before buying the regular size at 75 cents. It has lately been introduced in this country from Germany, and its wonderful cures are astonishing everyone that use it. Three doses will relieve any case. Try it. A WARNING.

LOOK OUT FOR HIM.

VANCOUVER, W. T., March 17, 1877.

To the Editor of the Oregonian:

I wish to send you a short note that may prove beneficial to some of the unprotected families of your city. For the last ten days, Vancouver has been visited by some unknown man, (believed to be crazy), who remains secreted during the day and visits the houses of widows and where there are no ablebodied men. He has been to nearly every house in our town of this nature, and at all hours of the night. I and many others are miserable as soon as night comes on. He makes these visits without any apparent object in view. On several occasions he has knocked at doors, and as soon as they were opened would fire off a pistol in the air, laugh at it and then run away. Such actions as this have led us to believe that he is insane. Our civil officers seem to be afraid of him. They hunted for him two or three nights since and took lanterns with them—they saw nothing of him of course. He entered the house of one of my friends and made her prepare him something to eat. She was very frightened but managed to remember enough to describe him so well as to define him to be a certain man, who has acted very strangely of late. Why the officials have not taken him up I know not. Last night, Lieut. Farrow left the garrison and went down town, when he was returning about 10 P. M., and crossing the reserve west of the garrison, he heard some one in the chaplain's back yard. Lieut. F. demanded who he was and received no satisfactory reply. He repeated his question and wanted to know what his business was there at that hour. He only received slang in reply. The lieutenant then told him that he would find out, and hastened to his quarters, procured his gun and several cartridges, and returned as soon as possible, but only in time to see the prowler running for the woods in rear of the garrison, yelling catch me if you can. Lieut. Farrow, who knew all about the woods and how to use his gun, thought he would try to catch him, and hastened to the east of the garrison, and took a road leading thence through the woods, and in a direction where he thought he could intercept him. Everything became quiet and he could neither see nor hear anything of him. But the brave lieutenant was not induced to give up his undertaking, and after watching for him a long hour, found him and shot him twice; the shot were small, some he had been using when out ducking the day previous. They were, however, unexpected and unwelcome to the prowling villain. Lieut. F. spoiled a suit of uniform and sprained his foot in endeavoring to secure him. But he knows how to appreciate our thanks, and they will recompense him, for I and many others who are unable to resist force, since our officials are asleep, do doubly thank him. This morning, shortly after the boat left, a note was found, saying—"women, rest in peace, I am gone; also, "want more room—have not enough of Vancouver." It is presumable that this note is from the man in question, and that he has gone to your city. He is either a desperate character or an insane man. If he is in your midst, I hope the police will be diligent to intercept him, and above all things that he will remain away from here. I am respectfully yours,

A WIDOW.

Encouragement for the Feeble.

Debility, whether it be inherent, or caused by overtaxed strength, or protracted illness, has a most depressing influence upon the mind, breeding an abject melancholy nearly akin to despair, and enforcing the abandonment of cherished projects and high hopes. Happily, the enfeebled system, even in extreme cases, is susceptible of invigoration. It is proved by incontrovertible evidence that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is an unfailing strengthener of the weak, and that in addition to vitalizing the physical organization, it establishes regularity among the organs upon whose efficient discharge of the duties imposed on them by nature, continued vigor and health depend. Thousands of instances might be cited to show the regenerating influence of this health-giving agent in cases of debility, liver disease, dyspepsia, nervous ailments, constipation, intermittent fever, urinary and uterine troubles, gout and rheumatism, and other maladies.

NEW SOUTH WALES.

Mr. G. H. Reid, of the Cobden Club of New South Wales, has presented the world with the most complete statistical view of the condition of that country, that has ever yet appeared. English people will study the following condensation of his work with interest, and Americans will read it with surprise:

The colony of New South Wales, according to the author, was founded January 26, 1788, its first population consisting of 1,000 souls, and for a period of fifty years New South Wales was Australia, but in 1851 the now great colony of Victoria was formed out of the district of Port Philip, and in 1859 the splendid province of Queensland was set off from the "mother colony." Territorially speaking, Mr. Reid deals not with the colony of 1788 or 1851, but that of 1860.

Regarding the climate of New South Wales [illegible] it bears a very high character. Great diversity of elevation and a stretch over nine degrees of latitude at a favorable distance from the equator afford many variations of temperature, from that of snow to great heat; but not a single locality in the whole expanse is found to be unhealthy. The heat is never intolerable, and for six months at least the climate is delightful. Mr. Reid quotes from the opinions of Count Strzelecki and others who have visited the colony and from the vital statistics to show the healthful influence of the climate. The only serious drawback is the occurrence of seasons of drought at uncertain periods. The rainfall, however, is ample, as Mr. Reid shows in an appendix, and as the country fills up means will be taken to store it.

The growth of population in the colony appears to have been rapid. According to a statement furnished the Home Secretary for the colonies in 1836, there were then 63,871 souls in the nineteen counties surrounding the chief settlement of Sydney, and beyond the counties there were only 2,968 persons to 400,000 square miles. The census of 1871 showed that there were 370,583 inhabitants in the counties and 142,988 in the interior beyond them. On the 31st of December, 1875, according to the estimates of the Registrar General, the population of the colony was: Males, 334,461; females, 272,191; [illegible]. Thus in less than five years the population underwent an increase of more [illegible].

At the time of writing, Mr. Reid informs us that the lines of railway in way, with extensions nearly completed, aggregate 602¼ miles, while 561¼ miles were projected, some of which had been approved by the Legislative Assembly. Telegraphs have been rapidly extended and, at the close of 1875 there were [illegible] on 8,641 miles of wire. Mr. Reid says: "According to area the United States have one mile of wire for every 36 square miles, New South Wales 1 mile of wire for every 40 square miles;" and adds, "We merely state these facts to show that the people of the colony are not insensible of the value of this agent of progress." A message of ten words is sent to any part of the colony for 1 shilling, and for 2 shillings to any part of the continent.

In 1875 the total revenue were £4,126,303, and the expenditures £3,332,332. The public debt at the close of the year amounted £11,470,637, but loans had been authorized for railways and other public works, by which it would be brought up to £12,840,000. Mr. Reid remarks that the public debt is not much more than three years' revenue; that £7,000,000 already returns nearly the full interest on [illegible], that after providing for the retirement of £785,000 of debentures, they have a cash surplus of £7,000,000 and an asset of £4,000,000 in the shape of balances due on land purchases drawing 5 per cent interest until paid, and concludes that it would not be easy to find a country whose finances are in a [illegible] position.

The present mainstay of Australian prosperity is live stock, and this says Mr. Reid, is conspicuously true of New South Wales. The area leased for grazing purposes in 1874 amounted to 183,107,200 acres, and according to official returns the live stock, March 31, 1875, was as follows:

Horses	346,961
Cattle	2,856,699
Sheep	22,872,882

Compared with the returns of 1867, the increase in horses amounted to 23 per cent; in cattle to [illegible] per cent, and in sheep to 111 per cent. Mr. Reid shows from the colonial statistics of 1875, that the export of the products of pastoral industry in New South Wales during the year reached a value of £7,222,863. [illegible] £7,500,000 pounds, its value amounting to £5,630,000. The adaptability of the soil and climate is very great, and Mr. Reid tells us that wheat and all English cereals, maize, the grape, sugar-cane, silk, coffee, tea, tobacco, cotton, rice, and all fruits of the temperate region and semi-tropical region may be grown in the colony. In 1865 [illegible] (exclusive of those for pastoral purposes) were 29,61, and 36,664 in 1875. The acreage under cultivation in 1875 was 451,138, and the extent of inclosed holdings aggregated 7,771,068 acres.

The minerals of New South Wales are gold, silver, copper, lead, tin, iron, coal, antimony, [illegible] for five years ending with [illegible] amounted to £[illegible]. The gems of New South Wales form a varied collection. The most prominent are diamonds, oriental rubies, emeralds, topazes and sapphires, the [illegible], opal, amethyst, garnet, zircon, chrysolites, besides common and less valuable kinds, such as the false topaz, cairngorm and onyx. The diamond localities cover an approximate area of 500 square miles.

The manufacturing establishments of the colony number 2,405, and embrace a large variety of products. Mr. Reid adduces figures to show that during a period when the population had grown 46 per cent, the native productions had decreased imports to the extent of £10,457,289. In respect to commerce, Mr. Reid shows that the entrances and clearances to and from the ports of the colony in 1875, made a total of 2,168,187 tons, while the imports amounted to a value of £13,490,220, and the exports to £13,671,563. With churches, schools and charitable institutions, the colony is well provided. There are 1,089 churches, divided between several religious denominations, and 1,596 public and private schools. In nearly every township there is a "school of arts" or a "literary institute." The government subscribes £1 for every £2 raised for the building funds of such institutions, and afterwards gives an endowment equal to one-half the annual subscriptions.

Sydney is the metropolis of the colony and contains a population of 135,500. It possesses a library, fine public parks and many noticeable public buildings. Of the beauty of the harbor of Sydney a writer has said: "I have seen nothing equal to it in the way of land-locked sea scenery—nothing second to it. Dublin Bay, the Bay of Spezzia, New York and the Cove of Cork are all picturesquely fine; Bantry Bay, with the little nooks of sea running up to Glengarry, is very lively, but they are not equal to Sydney harbor, either in shape, color or variety."

Decision in Mercantile Law.

CINCINNATI, March 18.—A private Toronto dispatch announces a decision of the court of appeals of that city, yesterday of interest to the business community. In the case of McLean vs Dun & Co., mercantile agency, the judge decided that the defendants could not be held liable for losses incurred through their reports. The amount involved was small, but the principle involved made it a test case.

A Pittsfield manufacturer is sending carriage rugs and blankets to South America, Norway and Sweden, and is enlarging his mill, as a result of the exhibition.

The Singer Manufacturing Co. report their sales for the year 1876 at 262,316 Machines, being an excess of 12,464 machines over their sales of 1875.

The recent decline in gold seems to have somewhat unsettled values in San Francisco, and to a less extent here also. There is not, however, as much complaint among business men as is noticed in our exchanges from that city, where it is said an unusual degree of dullness still pervades nearly all branches of trade, and values have shrunk in numerous instances to a serious extent within the past month or two. It is impossible to disguise the fact that the conditions of trade since the opening of the new year have been very unsatisfactory, and this result is directly the opposite of what was anticipated. As an outcome of the necessary curtailment of working expenses by merchants and manufacturers, the wages earning class have been made to bear a heavy share of the burden entailed by dull times. An improvement, however, is expected soon, and in the meantime there appears to be a disposition to pull through the dull period with as little complaining as possible.

In the local markets business is not active, if we except a good deal of preparation for the spring trade, which is going on among merchants and business men generally. A fair number of buyers from the interior of the State are in the city reconnoitering, but as yet their purchases have not been large, though they generally express themselves as satisfied with the conditions of this market, and we hear of some who, heretofore, have made a visit to San Francisco every spring who now believe such a trip unnecessary, as merchants here can serve them on as favorable terms.

In the produce market no change is noticed. The wheat market is especially dull and quotations almost entirely nominal.

Boston Wool Market.

NEW YORK March 17.—At Boston wool has been in fair demand during the past week, sales comprising nearly 1,500,000 pounds. The market continues rather weak and prices a shade easier for nearly all grades, as holders are now desirous to close up their stocks as fast as possible, and when responsible buyers present themselves they do not hesitate to make some slight concessions. Fleeces have attracted more attention this week. Sales of 580,000 lbs good lines medium and No. 1 Ohio and Pennsylvania, 40@42; X ditto, 41@43 with some very choice at 45@45½; some choice fine fleeces sold at 48@52, but 48 is about all that can be obtained for the best lots. Wisconsin and Michigan fleeces 36@40, but the latter is difficult to obtain, and sales of both Michigan and Wisconsin have been mostly at 38 for good. The sales of the week considerably reduced stocks. Combing and delaine [illegible] demand, particularly the latter, and for this description prices continue to be sustained [illegible] up close. Delaines have been selling at from 44½ to 50, mostly from 45 to 48. Pulled wool has been in fair demand, but at rather easier prices, particularly for low grades. Sales of 181,000 lbs. at from 25 to 50 for low super up to very choice; the principal sales having been in range of 35@45 for super and X. Fall California continues to move off freely. Some very choice lots have been sold at 25@27, but the bulk of sales has been in range of 15@20; spring, 23½@30.

Chicago Grain Market.

CHICAGO, March 17.—The markets during the past week have ruled rather steady, and wheat has been rather firmer. A break in prices is among the probabilities, and is predicted by some. The principle reason therefor being the small foreign demand at present prices, and the subsidence of the war fever in Europe. Prices close as follows: Wheat $1 22¼, corn $3 37½, oats 37½, Rye 61, barley 55, pork $13 65, lard $9 30. These prices are all for regular cash customers. Freight rates on corn have been reduced between the Missouri river and St. Louis and Chicago, and vast quantities which are said to be in the country between the two rivers are expected to come into this city for some months. Lake navigation will commence next month, and many charters for lake shipments are already taken.

LANDS FOR SALE

The Society has the following REAL ESTATE in its hands for Sale:

323 Acres

In Yamhill county, 18 miles from McMinnville; 150 acres under cultivation and 173 acres of good pasturage. The farm has good running water and excellent spring; also timber enough for practical purposes, a rolling surface and good drainage. There are good neighbors in the vicinity.

Price $20 per acre. Terms one-half cash, balance on long credit at low interest.

400 Acres

In Washington county; 120 acres of Beaver dam land, with no timber or brush on it; about 40 acres of heavy timber, balance open hazel brush land. There is a good Barn and Log house on the place; also a fine young orchard and 16 acres of Timothy meadow. The land is nearly all under fence, and it can easily be made one of the finest farms in Oregon. Price $5,250.

68 Acres

On the Columbia bottom, 20 miles north of Portland, 2½ miles from landing place of daily steamers on the Columbia river. Lake river, a navigable stream, crosses the place. It is one of the best dairy farms in the country. Two hundred and sixty acres of this tract is good pasture and meadow land, and will be sold separately or with part or all of the balance, which is timber.

Price for the meadow and pasture, $15 per acre; for the timber, $7 00 per acre. Price for the whole tract, $6,500. Terms—Two-thirds cash, balance on time. Good buildings on the place.

CITY ADVERTISEMENTS.

Ordinance No. 1931.

AN ORDINANCE TO PROVIDE FOR THE TIME and manner of improving Third street from the center of Yamhill street to the center of Taylor street.

The City of Portland does ordain as follows:

Section 1. The proposed improvement of Third street from the center of Yamhill street to the center of Taylor street shall be completed as hereinafter provided on or before the 1st day of May, 1877.

Section 2. The surface of the street shall be cleared of all timber, plank or other obstructions, (sidewalks of the proper width and grade, and otherwise in good condition excepted.) If the obstructions are not removed within three days after notice from the Superintendent of Streets they shall be removed by and become the property of the contractor.

Section 3. The roadway shall be graded to the depth of 17 inches at the center of the street and 22 inches at the gutters; a foundation course of broken stone shall be spread evenly over the surface a thickness of 12 inches at the center line of the street and gradually diminishing to 8 inches at the gutters; the stone shall be broken upon the ground and shall not exceed 12 inches in largest diameter. Upon the foundation course of broken stone a layer of gravel or crushed stone shall be evenly spread to a thickness of 5 inches at the center and 3 inches at the gutters; the street shall then be opened for travel for 10 days, when a second layer of gravel or crushed stone shall be evenly spread of such thickness as will bring the surface of the street to grade. The bottom layer shall be stone of good quality, free from cobbles or coarse gravel; the top course shall be of clean gravel or crushed stone, none of which shall be of more than 2 inches in diameter, and free from loam or other impurities except clean sharp sand.

Section 4. The improvement shall also consist of laying side and crosswalks where necessary, or by repairing the same; the lumber and material to be used to conform to the provisions of sections 11 and 12 of Ordinance No. 798.

Section 5. The contractor shall take entire charge of the work during its progress, and shall be responsible for any loss or accident resulting from carelessness or neglect.

Section 6. The Committee on Streets and Public Property are hereby authorized to advertise for, receive proposals and enter into contract with the lowest responsible bidder or bidders for the improvement specified in this Ordinance.

Section 7. The improvement shall be completed to the satisfaction of the Committee on Streets and Public Property and the Superintendent of Streets.

Passed the Common Council March 7, 1877.

W. S. CALDWELL,
Auditor and Clerk.

Approved March 8, 1877.

AN ORDINANCE TO PROVIDE FOR THE time and manner of improving E street from the west line of Tenth street to the center line of Seventeenth street.

The City of Portland does ordain as follows:

Section 1. The proposed improvement of that part of E street lying between the center line of Seventeenth street and the west line of Tenth street shall be completed in the manner hereinafter provided on or before the 1st day of June, 1877.

Section 2. The surface of the street shall be cleared of all timber, plank or other obstructions (sidewalks of the proper width and grade and otherwise in good condition excepted). If the obstructions are not removed within three days after notice from the Superintendent of Streets they shall be removed by and become the property of the contractor.

Section 3. The improvement shall consist of grading, laying sidewalks and crosswalks and constructing a bridge across Tanner's Creek.

Section 4. The bridge across Tanner's creek shall be built similar to the bridge on G street and according to plans and specifications to be furnished by the Committee on Streets and Public Property.

Section 5. Sidewalks and crosswalks shall correspond as nearly as practicable to the provisions of sections 7 and 8 of Ordinance No. 798, entitled "An Ordinance in relation to the improvement of streets."

Section 6. The provisions of sections 11 and 12 of said Ordinance No. 798, shall apply to all lumber and material used in the improvement provided for by this Ordinance.

Section 7. The contractor shall take entire charge of the work during its progress, and shall be responsible for any loss or accident resulting from carelessness or neglect.

Section 8. The improvement shall be completed to the satisfaction of the Committee on Streets and Public Property and the Superintendent of Streets.

Section 9. The Committee on Streets and Public Property are hereby authorized to advertise for, receive proposals and enter into contract with the lowest responsible bidder or bidders for the improvement specified in this Ordinance.

Passed the Common Council March 7, 1877.

W. S. CALDWELL,
Auditor and Clerk.

Approved March 11, 1877.
